UFC president Dana White is sick of talking about Jake Paul but even he is impressed by who the YouTuber-turned-boxer is rumoured to be fighting next. According to YouTube reporter KEEMSTAR, "The Problem Child' is set to announce former UFC middleweight champion, Anderson Silva, as his next opponent ahead of his sixth professional boxing bout in October. Anderson Silva, 47, represents Jake Paul's short career in combat sports. "I don't give a s what they do," White told reporters on Tuesday. "But if he's really fighting Anderson Silva, and that's true, it's about time, he's got a real fight on his hands there. Regardless of how old Anderson is, yeah, that's a real fight." 'The Spider' returned to boxing after his legendary UFC run came to an end and was a huge underdog heading into his first boxing bout in 16 years as he faced ill-disciplined former world champion Julio Cesar Chavez Jr. Chavez Jr is the son of Mexican boxing legend Julio Cesar Chavez Sr. Remarkably, Silva beat Chavez Ir by a split decision in Mexico. The UFC boss rarely has anything good to say about Paul But he's glad to see 'The Problem Child' facing one of his former champions Mayweather's bodyguard blames brutal knockout loss on fatigue and calls for rematch Anthony Joshua gave middle finger to fans singing, 'There's only one Tyson Fury' Boxer performed MC Hammer ring walk dance only to suffer first round KO Eubank Jr taunts Benn with '60 per cent' shirt and reveals he is training himself Jake Paul causes controversy with pound-for-pound list and Tyson Fury reacts Chris Eubank Jr vs Conor Benn date: Start time, undercard and how to watch The 47-year-old then went on to KO fellow aging MMA legend Tito Ortiz in another professional boxing bout in September 2021. Paul boasts a perfect 5-0 boxing record but is yet to face anyone with a background in the sport or striking. The 25-year-old holds wins over fellow YouTuber AnEsonGib, former NBA star Nate Robinson and former MMA champions Ben Askren and Tyron Woodley (x2). Paul was set for his first step up in opposition when he was booked to face undefeated British boxing prospect, Tommy Fury. 'The Spider' has rediscovered his love for boxing since leaving the UFC in 2020 Paul is yet to face a striker Unfortunately, his fight with Tyson Fury's little brother quickly fell through and Hasim Rahman Jr got the call to fight Paul at Madison Square Garden on August 6. However, that fight and the event at MSG were ultimately scrapped as the son of legendary heavyweight boxer Hasim Rahman, made it clear he was unable to make the 200lb weight limit. Paul may not have secured a fight against a 'real' boxer but Silva certainly represents a step up in opposition as one of the most prolific knockout artists in MMA history. 888Sport: Liam Smith to win at 5/1 OR Hassan Mwakinyo to win at 66/1* - CLAIM HERE Deposit min £/$/€5 on your selection at normal odds in the regular market • If your selection wins, we'll pay you out at the normal price and any extra winnings from the advertised enhanced price will be paid to you in Free Bets are granted within 72 hours and expire after 7 days. Lawler fought again in the next month against Steve Berger at UFC 37.5 and won via TKO.[6] In his next fight, Lawler faced another veteran, Tiki Ghosn at UFC 42 and lost after he submitted due to a hip injury.[8] Lawler came back to get a win over fellow boxing and wrestling specialist Chris Lytle via unanimous decision at UFC 45.[citation needed] In his next UFC bout, Lawler faced former WEC Welterweight Champion Nick Diaz at UFC 47.[9] Lawler was handed the first of only two knockout losses of his career to date in the second round. Lawler then lost again at UFC 50 against the late Evan Tanner, who would win the UFC Middleweight Championship in his next fight. Post-UFC Lawler then fought at SuperBrawl in Hawaii, defeating Falaniko Vitale via knockout to become the SuperBrawl Middleweight Champion. [10] Lawler then made his debut for King of the Cage, being scheduled to fight Jeremy Brown, and won via armbar submission.[11] Lawler then faced Falaniko Vitale again, this time for the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship, and won again in the rematch by knockout, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship and the ICON Sport Middleweight Championshi arm-triangle choke submission.[13] Lawler then made his PRIDE debut in Las Vegas, Nevada against Joey Villasenor at PRIDE 32 and won via TKO. On March 31, 2007, he fought Frank Trigg for the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship and won by KO in the fourth round, becoming the ICON Sport Middleweight Champion a second time. [14] On September 15, 2007, he fought PRIDE Fighting Championships veteran Murilo Rua for the EliteXC Middleweight Championship and won by TKO in the third round due to punches. [15] Lawler was scheduled to fight Kala Hose for the ICON Sport Middleweight Championship on December 15, 2007, in Honolulu, Hawaii, Lawler defended his EliteXC Middleweight Championship against Scott Smith at EliteXC: Primetime on May 31, 2008, at the Prudential Center in Newark, New Jersey, which ended in a no contest after Smith had their rematch at EliteXC: Unfinished Business. Lawler defeated Smith by TKO in the second round.[18] Strikeforce After defeating Scott Smith, Lawler's employers, EliteXC, announced that they would be shutting down and filing for bankruptcy.[19] Lawler's contract was picked up by Strikeforce with his first bout under the Strikeforce banner on June 6, 2009, against Jake Shields. The bout was fought at a catchweight of 182 lb. Lawler lost via submission due to a guillotine choke at 2:02 of the first round. [20] Lawler faced K-1 veteran Melvin Manhoef inflicted using leg kicks. In dramatic fashion, Lawler came back to win by knockout late in the first round with an overhand right.[22] Lawler was expected to face Jason Miller on June 16, 2010, at Strikeforce: Los Angeles but Lawler instead faced former Strikeforce Light Heavyweight Champion Renato Sobral in a 195 lbs. Catchweight bout.[23] Lawler had two unsuccessful attempts to meet the 195 lbs mark at the Strikeforce: Los Angeles Weigh-Ins, but was finally booked for the fight weighing 195.5 pounds, after stepping on the scale for the third time. Sobral defeated Lawler via unanimous decision. Sobral utilized his reach advantage and grappling expertise to defeat the much smaller Lawler. [24] Lawler fought Olympic Games silver medalist Matt Lindland at Strikeforce: Henderson vs. Babalu II on December 4, 2010.[25] He defeated Lindland fifty seconds into the first round via KO.[26] Lawler recked Souza in the first round but ended up losing the fight via submission in the third round.[28] Lawler returned and faced Tim Kennedy at Strikeforce: Fedor vs. Henderson. He lost the fight via unanimous decision, being dominantly controlled throughout the fight on the floor by Kennedy.[29] Lawler got back on track with a highlight reel first-round TKO victory due to a flying knee over rising prospect Adlan Amagov at Strikeforce: Rockhold vs. Jardine.[30] Lawler next faced Lorenz Larkin at Strikeforce: Rockhold vs. Kennedy on July 14, 2012.[31] He lost the fight via unanimous decision, despite rocking Larkin early in the first round with a short right hook.[32] He left Miletich Fighting Systems after this loss and joined Florida-based gym American Top Team. Return to UFC Lawler returned to the Welterweight division and faced Josh Koscheck on February 23, 2013 at UFC 157.[33] He won via first-round TKO. Koscheck visibly protested the stoppage, but replay footage showed he was not defending himself in a dangerous position, as Lawler landed repeated blows. The finish earned him the Knockout of the Night bonus.[34] Lawler was expected to face former Strikeforce Welterweight Champion Tarec Saffiedine on July 27, 2013 at UFC on Fox 8.[35] However, Saffiedine was forced out of the bout with an injury and was replaced by Bobby Voelker.[37] Lawler won the fight via knockout in the second round. Lawler next faced Rory MacDonald at UFC 167.[38] He won the fight via split decision.[39] On December 13, 2013 news came that Georges St-Pierre would be taking an indefinite break from MMA and vacate the UFC Welterweight Championship.[40] Following the announcement, Dana White announced that Lawler would face Johny Hendricks on March 15, 2014 at UFC 171 for the vacated title. [41] Lawler lost the close back-and-forth bout via unanimous decision. Despite the loss, the fight earned Lawler his first Fight of the Night bonus award. [42] Returning guickly to the cage, Lawler replaced an injured Tarec Saffiedine and fought Jake Ellenberger at UFC 173 on May 24, 2014.[43] He won the fight via TKO in the third round due to a combination of a knee and punches.[44] Lawler faced Matt Brown in a 5-round Welterweight title eliminator bout on July 26, 2014 at UFC on Fox 12.[45] He won the fight via unanimous decision. The win also earned him a Fight of the Night bonus award.[46] UFC Welterweight Champion Lawler fought a rematch with Johny Hendricks for the UFC 181 on December 6, 2014.[47] He won the fight, and the title, via split decision.[48] A rematch with Rory MacDonald took place on July 11, 2015 at UFC 189.[49] Lawler retained his title in the fifth round via TKO. [50] The back and forth action earned both participants Fight of the Night honors.[51] The fight was considered an instant classic by fans and media alike with UFC President Dana White hailing it as one of the best welterweight fights in the promotion's history.[52] The fight was chosen as the Sherdog Fight of the Year for 2015.[53] The fight has since been acclaimed as one of the greatest in the history of mixed martial arts, voted the best fight in the history of the UFC in an ESPN poll in 2017.[54] Lawler was expected to face Carlos Condit on November 15, 2015 at UFC 193.[55] However, the bout was scrapped from the event after Lawler suffered a thumb injury.[56] The fight was rescheduled as the headliner at UFC 195 on January 2, 2016.[57] Lawler defended his title, and defeated Condit via split decision in a very close fight.[58][59] The bout also earned Lawler his fourth Fight of the Night bonus award.[60] Lawler faced Tyron Woodley on July 30, 2016 in the main event at UFC 201.[61] He lost the fight via knockout early in the first round, thus losing the title.[62] Post-championship Lawler was briefly linked to a bout with Donald Cerrone on November 12, 2016 at UFC 205.[63] However, just a few days after the announcement, it was revealed that Lawler had declined the fight to allow more recovery time from his last defeat.[64] He was replaced by The Ultimate Fighter: Team Jones vs. Team Sonnen middleweight winner Kelvin Gastelum.[65] Lawler was expected to face Cerrone on July 8, 2017 at UFC 213.[66] However, reports began to circulate on June 28 that Cerrone had sustained a minor injury and that the pairing would be left intact, but is expected to take place three weeks later at UFC 214.[67] UFC

President Dana White confirmed later that same day that Cerrone in fact had a staph infection and a pulled groin.[68] Lawler faced Cerrone on July 29, 2017 at UFC 214.[69] He won the fight via unanimous decision.[70] In the post fight interview, Lawler faced Cerrone on July 29, 2017 at UFC 214.[69] He won the fight via unanimous decision.[70] In the post fight interview, Lawler faced Cerrone on July 29, 2017 at UFC 214.[69] He won the fight via unanimous decision.[70] In the post fight interview, Lawler faced Cerrone on July 29, 2017 at UFC 214.[69] He won the fight via unanimous decision.[70] In the post fight interview, Lawler faced Cerrone on July 29, 2017 at UFC 214.[69] He won the fight via unanimous decision.[70] In the post fight interview, Lawler faced Cerrone on July 29, 2017 at UFC 214.[69] He won the fight via unanimous decision.[70] In the post fight interview, Lawler faced Cerrone on July 29, 2017 at UFC 214.[69] He won the fight via unanimous decision.[70] In the post fight interview, Lawler faced Cerrone on July 29, 2017 at UFC 214.[69] He won the fight via unanimous decision.[70] In the post fight interview, Lawler faced Cerrone on July 29, 2017 at UFC 214.[69] He won the fight via unanimous decision.[70] In the post fight via unanimous decision with the post fight via unanimous decision with the post fight via unanimo then recovering from serious injuries.[71] Lawler faced Rafael Dos Anjos on December 16, 2017 in the main event at UFC on Fox: Lawler vs. dos Anjos.[72][73] He lost the fight by unanimous decision,[74] and he suffered from a torn ACL from the fight which would prevent him from fighting in 2018.[75] Lawler faced UFC newcomer Ben Askren on March 2, 2019, at UFC 235.[76] Although Lawler looked to have the upper hand on Askren early on in the fight, he eventually lost the fight due to a bulldog choke.[77] The ending of the fight was controversial because referee Herb Dean stopped the fight thinking that Lawler had passed out when this may not have been the case; Lawler's arm appeared to go limp indicating he had passed out, however, while Dean was checking to see if he was out he appeared to signal a thumbs up and jumped up fully conscious straight after the stoppage. Despite that, Nevada State Athletic Commission director Bob Bennett was in full support of Dean's decision to stop the fight. [78] A rematch with Tyron Woodley was expected to take place on June 29, 2019 at UFC on ESPN 3.[79] On May 16, 2019 it was reported that Woodley suffered a hand injury and was pulled from the fight. The bout was ultimately scrapped.[80] Lawler faced Colby Covington on August 3, 2019 at UFC on ESPN 5.[81] He lost the bout via unanimous decision.[82] Lawler was scheduled to face Santiago Ponzinibbio on December 14, 2019 at UFC 245.[83] However, on October 12, 2019, it was revealed that Ponzinibbio had pulled out of the fight via unanimous decision.[86] Lawler was expected to face Mike Perry on November 21, 2020, at UFC 255. However, due to injuries, Lawler pulled out of the bout.[87] Lawler faced returning veteran Nick Diaz in a rematch on September 25, 2021 at UFC 266. The bout was contested at middleweight and was a special non-title, non-main event five round fight.[88][89] In the third round, Lawler knocked down Diaz, who did not respond to the referee's instruction to return to his feet. As a result Lawler was awarded the win by TKO.[90] Lawler faced Bryan Barberena on July 2, 2022, at UFC 276.[91] He lost the back-and-forth bout by TKO in the second round.[92] This fight earned him a Fight of the Night award.[93] Lawler is scheduled to face Santiago Ponzinibbio on December 10, 2022, at UFC 282,[94] Personal life Lawler also has an elder brother.[4] He is married to Marcia Suzanne Lawler (née Fritz)[95] and has a son.[96] Championship and accomplishments Mixed martial arts Ultimate Fighting Championship UFC Welterweight Championship (One time) Two
